CAREGIVER CONNECTIONS
AN EDUCATIONAL WEBINAR SERIES

Alzheimer’s Disease Prevention & Treatment

Tuesday, October 17th at 2:00 PM EST

Dr. Kathleen Welsh-Bohmer will present on the advances in the diagnosis of Alzheimer’s disease, breakthroughs in treatment and how to optimize your brain health and reduce the risk of cognitive decline.

Dr. Kathleen Welsh-Bohmer, PhD

Dr. Kathleen Welsh-Bohmer is a Professor of Psychiatry and Neurology at Duke University. Clinically trained as a neuropsychologist, Dr. Welsh-Bohmer’s research activities have been focused around developing effective prevention and treatment strategies to delay the onset of cognitive disorders occurring in later life.

Currently, Dr. Welsh-Bohmer is the PI for the Recruitment/Engagement and Outreach Core of the NIA funded Duke/UNC ADRC. She is working to develop reliable clinical measures in the early pre-dementia stages of Alzheimer’s disease. This work has important implications for accelerating global clinical trials in Alzheimer’s disease prevention and in facilitating overall population brain health.
